PRINCIPAL'S REPORT

We were so excited to welcome our new, 2024 preps (and their families!) for their first transition day last week. They will join us for four more sessions where they will get to know our teachers, the other students, and our school environment. They all settled in so well, we are sure they will be wonderful additions to the Marlo Primary School family.

There has been a lot happening this week, even though students are only here for 3 days! We have had three new flagpoles installed, so we can now proudly fly the Torres Straight Island flag alongside our Australian and Aboriginal flags. Our senior students have been busy spreading the new soft fall mulch under the playground as well, so that we now have a beautiful looking (and safe) playground area. And we welcomed Judy from the CFA to meet with all our students and teach them all about fire safety. Remember, it is important that your children know their full name, address and phone number. Thanks Judy!

I would like to thank our teachers and parents for the parent-teacher chats that happened last week. It was so wonderful to hear all the positive comments about our students, staff, and school, as well as the excitement from students playing while their parents chatted (why is the playground so much more fun outside of school hours?!).

Fortnightly fact: A blue whale's heart is about the size of a small piano or a Harley Davidson motorcycle!

Happy learning,

Nicole Pollard, Principal

In the Classroom

Weaving With Lynn

The P-2 students have been learning all about insects this term. They were very lucky to have Lynn come in and teach them how to weave a dilly bag and create a weaving using natural objects from nature. We made weaving using sticks and raffia inspired by spider webs.

3-6 Music

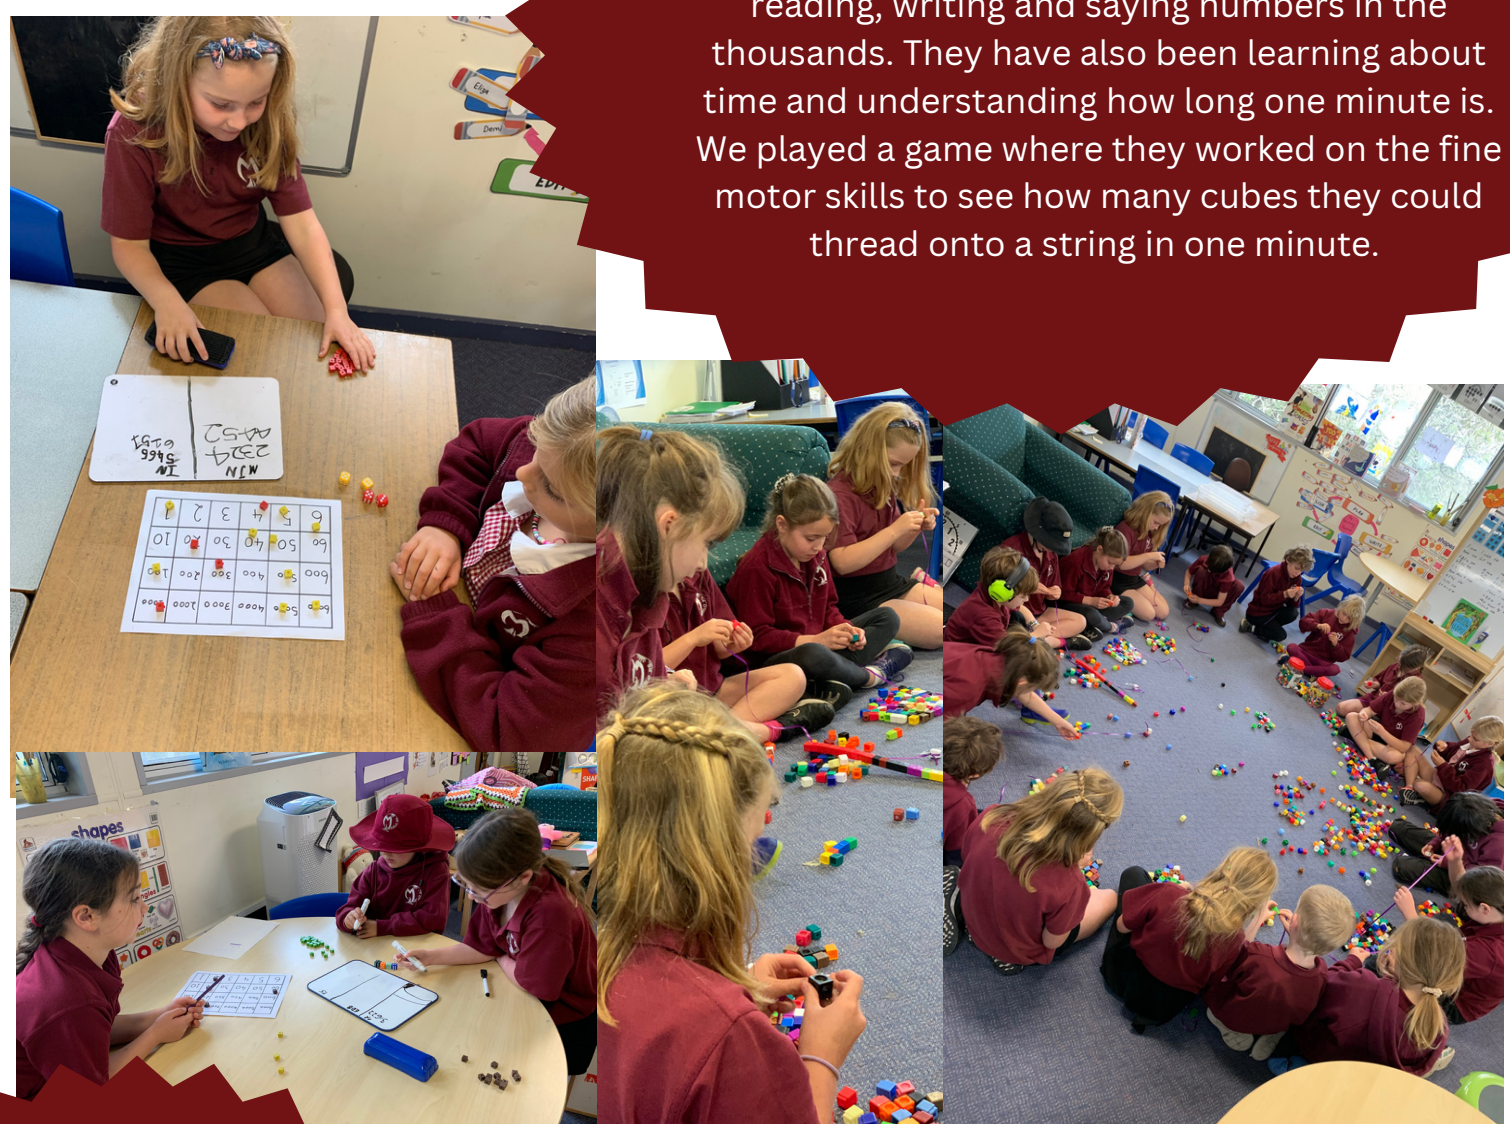

This term in music we have been preparing for our end of year concert. The 3-6 students have been working on following a beat, getting ready for our Boomwhackers performance!

In the Classroom

P-2 Numeracy

In numeracy the P-2 students have been learning about place value by playing 'Place Value Knockout'. The students have been practicing reading, writing and saying numbers in the thousands. They have also been learning about time and understanding how long one minute is. We played a game where they worked on the fine motor skills to see how many cubes they could thread onto a string in one minute.

Podcast Making

This term in our readers workshop students have been making podcasts reviewing their favourite books! They are working on their reading fluency, expression and turn taking.

This week we had Judy visit us from the Marlo CFA. She taught our students all about being fire safe and what they can do in an emergency. Many of our students could not recall key information they may need when calling triple zero. When we call 000 its important for our children to know a phone number, street address, street name, town/suburb and the state they live in. We encourage families to help their children learn this important information.
